2) The Secretary, Gopalarao Enquiry Committee, has also suggested that as as many as seventeen cases of cheating are pending in Court against B. N. Gopalarao, the publication of the Committee's report may prejudice adjudication by the Court and may amount to Contempt of Court.

3) In the circumstances the Res^{n} may have to be opposed or the discussions merely watched.

4) Orders are solicited as to which Minister will be in charge of the Res^{n}.

6) The C.M. would probably be in charge.

7) The Resⁿ may be opposed, as I thought fit, only the portions that do not cover matters which are subjudice, or which if may not be in public interests to publish, may be published. It would however be beset with various practical difficulties.

8) A decision has to be taken after the report is received. KMR 10/3/50
